January 7th, 1918

Mr. Edward Robins,

Secretary of the Corporation,

University of Pennsylvania.

My dear Mr. Robins:

My middle name is Alexander, the full name being Robert Alexander Falconer.

I have been thinking over the address that through your courtesy I am to give on University Day, and I hope that I will find it possible to make it appropriate to the celebration of Washington's Birthday. Anticipating great pleasure from my visit through your kindness, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

Mr. E. Robins,
Secretary to the Corporation,
University of Pennsylvania,
Philadelphia, Pa.

My dear Mr. Robins:

I think that it may perhaps be better for me to take my own gown with me for the University Day Exercises. With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

My dear Sir Robert:

I am enclosing you an abstract of your very interesting address delivered on"University Day". Will you be kind enough to go over the proof at your convenience and then return it to me.

Very truly yours,

Edward Robins

Secretary.

March 20th, 1918

Mr. Edward Robins,

Secretary, University of Pennsylvania,

Law School Building, Philadelphia.

Dear Mr. Robins:

I am returning to you the proof of my address which you were good enough to send me. I notice that you made suggestions with regard to breaking it up, consequently I have carried this principle a good deal further and have placed headings in the margin which I think will indicate the ideas that I wished to emphasize in the address. Would you be kind enough to let me have some copies of it when it is printed?

I look back with great pleasure to my visit with you. With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

April 18th, 1918.

Mr. Robins,

Secretary, University of Pennsylvania,

Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mr. Robins:

I have to thank you very much for the four copies of "The Proceedings of University Day" which you were good enough to send me. The Bulletin is very well prepared. I wonder whether you would be kind enough to send me half a dozen more, and also if it is too much to ask you to send one to each of the following gentlemen:

Sir Edmund Walker, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Toronto.

Professor John Purnet, University of St. Andrew's, Scotland.

Dr. M. E. Sadler, Vice-Chancellor, University of Leeds, England.

Professor J. M. Falconer, Pine Hill, Halifax, N.S. Canada.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.
